VCU Medical Center at Stony Point offers incontinence care. For women with incontinence, uterine prolapse and other pelvic floor dysfunction, Stony Point features highly trained physicians in this sub-specialty. Urogynecologists are knowledgeable about the bladder, rectum and female reproductive tract. They understand the complex relationships among these structures and treat them accordingly.

A thorough examination is done and the following may be suggested:

Physical therapy, including biofeedback, electrical stimulation, bladder retraining, muscle strengthening and other techniques from a woman therapist who specializes in pelvic floor issues

Medication

Specialized devices and treatments

Pre- and post-surgical care

Consultations and second opinions

Reconstructive pelvic surgery, laparoscopic surgery and minimally invasive outpatient surgery are performed at the VCU Medical Center downtown.
