A program of Horizon Behavioral Health, Therapeutic Day Treatment (TDT) is a school based mental health program that integrates mental health services into the regular school environment. This year round program features a therapeutic summer program designed to maintain the progress that students make during the regular school year. A therapist and team of behavior specialists and clinicians provide a mental health program to referred students. Features of the program include, but are not limited to individual, group, family and play therapy for all participants. A treatment plan is designed for each participant that addresses the issues that are preventing optimal performance at school. Case management and psychiatric services may be coupled with Therapeutic Day Treatment services to better meet the needs of students enrolled in the program.

Old Forest Road Programs provide a therapeutic environment for students who can no longer be maintained in the regular school environment. Homebound teachers provide the educational component and are assigned by the referring school district

Psychiatric Services offers psychiatric evaluation, nursing, and medication management and participation in the treatment planning process for all children in these programs.
